THINK NEGRO'S STORY A MYTH. | FORTESCUE'S A MAN OF MIGHT Police Sure Unidentified Man Met

The man whose naked body was found in the Harlem River at the foot of 126th street on Tuesday, and who has not yet been identified, was neither drugged nor beaten before he went into the river, as Edward Cotton, the negro said he was, but his death was due to drowning. That much was shown by the autopsy performed at the Morgue vesterday by Coroner's Physician Schultz. Furthermore, Dr. Schultz declared that the body had not been in the water more than eight or ten ours when it was found, while, according to the yarn told by the negro Cotton, the nan had been in the water four days.

If Cotton was telling the truth when he said that the two negroes, Joseph Wilson and Charles Carter, drugged and robbed a white man and threw him overboard Capt. McVally and his detectives of the 126th street station have about come to the conclusion that Cotton was lying, and that the man was drowned accidentally.

"If the District Attorney is willing," said Capt. McNally last night, "I see no reason why Carter and Wilson shouldn't be discharged. There is not the slightest corroboration of Cotton's story."

corroboration of Cotton's story."

The police think that Cotton's motive in lying Carter and Wilson into jail was a grudge. Cotton was arrested, himself, early last week on the charge of stealing some clothes from William Organ, a negro, He said then that he was the victim of a put-up job and that he would get square with the gang that was against him. Wilson and Carter are friends of Organ and belong to the same gang.

Several persons called at the Morgue vesterday, but none of them was able to identify the body.

COLLEGE TALES OF SOLDIER WHO STOPPED DR. HOUGHTON'S CAB.

Just Been Promoted First Lieutenant, U. S. Cavalry-Served in Rough Riders Stepson of Robert B. Roosevelt, the President's Uncle, and Son of the Late Marion T. Fortescue.

The soldier who left the young woman he was escorting and stopped the Rev. Dr. Houghton's runaway cab horse in Fifth avenue Wednesday afternoon is better known to New York as "Rolly" Fortescue, perhaps, than as First Lieut. Granville Roland Fortescue of the Fourth Cavalry. He is a stepson of Robert B. Roosevelt uncle of the President. The pluck and strength he exhibited while the horse was dragging him about on the pavement have been shown before on college campus, on football field and in the army in Cuba and in the Philippines. Lieut. Fortescue came East on a furlough a short time ago to attend the Roosevelt family reunion which Robert B. Roosevelt brought about at his country place at Savville, L. I.

"Rolly" Fortescue is thick set, but deceptively short and does not give outward signs of his remarkable strength. He is now about 29 years old. When he went to Yale the feeling against hazing was very high. A Texas youth of his class had made himself obnoxious to his fellows to such an extent that it was decided that nothing but a hazing would acclimate him. The class leaders conferred and agreed that the Texan ought to be hazed and "Rolly" volun-teered to do it alone and in his own way. That night when the Texan was asleed Fortescue went to his room armed with an old horse pistol, which had been loaded up with a lot of junk calculated to increase the sound of the gunpowder. He stood at the foot of the Texan's bed and emptied at the foot of the Texan's bed and emptied the pistol into the headboard. The Texan sprang out of bed in supreme terror and was marched in his night clothes around the campus while Yale looked on.

The faculty took up the case. Fortescue admitted his guilt and that ended his career at Yale. His stepfather never offered a word of criticism, saying he was glad that "Rolly" had owned up. Fortescue then prepared for the University of Pennsylvania. He was anxious above all to play football, and before the time came for him to enter and before the time came for him to enter to make the team.

In the woods on the Roosevelt place at It consisted of a railroad tie hung from the limb of a tree so that it just cleared the ground. The tie was padded with leather. Here Fortescue worked violently every day, tackling the tie until he was black and blue and the woode echoed his snorts and sounds of struggle.

Then this ball of muscles went to college When the coach called for volunteers for the team he stepped out on the field. Among and the coach singling him out told him and the coach singing him out tournsh he wouldn't do.

"Not big enough," said the coach.
"Wouldn't do for a tackle."

"Yes, I would," insisted Fortescue.
"What could you tackle?" asked the coach in amusement.

"Well, I might tackle you," said Fortescue.

In the scrub lineup that afternoon Fortescue tackled the coach and threw him with such force that he was laid up for three days. While the coach was nursing his bumps he changed his mind about Fortescue's unavailability and Fortescue ot on the team.

He did not stay to be graduated from Pennsyvania. War had broken out in Cuba and he left college hastily and joined the Cubans. Afer a short experience there he he came back to America and on May 5, 1898, was appointed corporal of Troop B First United States Volunteer Cavalry (the Rough Riders). He was mustered out on Sept. 15, 1898. He still hankered for fighting and on July 5, 1899, was appointed First Lieutenant of the Twenty-sixth Volunteer Infantry. He went to the Philippines, serving with his regiment He did not stay to be graduated from the Philippines, serving with his regiment until March 15, 1901. He joined the Regular army on Oct. 26, 1901, as Second Lieutenant of the Fourth Cayalry. He

GRAHAM BELL TO FLY

And Langley With Him, to Prove That

They Can Navigate the Air. BADDECK, C. B., Aug. 6.-Prof. Alexander Graham Bell has gone far toward solving the airship problem. In a few days he will make an experiment which he hopes will place the feasibility of the airship beyond peradventure. Prof. S. P. Langley of the Smithsonian Institution, at Washington, will arrive here in a day or two and be associated with Prof. Bell in the conduct of the experiment. Dr. Bell's work has been almost altogether silk in the construction of his machines and has taken a lighter and stronger material, which resembles silk in its texture. Thus far he has succeeded in having his kite remain stationary in the air and has himself risen in one of the airships.

In the experiment in which Prof. Langley will be associated with Dr. Bell the object will be to seek to obtain full control of the machine. The experiment will be conducted on the Bras d'Or lands. Dr. Bell says that even if this experiment is successful air flight is only in its infance.

GEN. MILES LEAVES THE ARMY

HE WILL ISSUE A FAREWELL ADDRESS TO-MORROW.

Gen. S. B. M. Young Will Have the Honor of Serving as the Last General Commanding the Army and as the First Chief of Staff-Gen. Corbin's Office Moved.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.-The retirement from active service of Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles will be announced at the War Department Saturday morning. Gen. Miles has already prepared a farewell address to the army, which will be issued on the day of his retirement from the office of Commanding General of the Army. Gen. Miles will be succeeded in rank and duties by Major-Gen. S. B. M. Young, who will be promoted to be Lieutenant-General, and will at the same time be assigned to the command of the army. Under the Staff bill, which became a law at the last session of Congress, the General Staff will come into legal existence Aug. 15. Upon that date the office of the General in com-mand of the army will cease, and in its place there will be a Chief of Staff.

Secretary Root has announced the selec-tion of Gen. Young to be the first Chief of Staff, so he will have the honor of serving as the last General commanding the army and as the first Chief of Staff. He will fill the first office, however, but one week, this being the interim between the retirement of Gen. Miles and the formation of the General Staff.

General Staff.

Arrangements have already been made at the War Department for the change.

Army Headquarters, in the War Department, where Gen. Miles and his staff have been located, will be turned over to the General Staff, and the room now occupied as Gen. Miles's private office will be used for the sessions of the General Staff.

It has been considered fitting that the Chief of Staff shall be located as near as passible to the Secretary of War and possible to the Secretary of War, and Adjutant-General Corbin, who now occu-pies a room next to that of the Secretary of War, has selected another room, further along the corridor, and Gen. Young will occupy the room which was the scene of many interesting events during the war with Spain. In this room, Gen. Corbin spent many nights waiting for important messages from Gen. Shafter in Cuba, and it was here that Lieut.-Col. Roosevelt, after receiving his commission in the Rough Riders, said good-by to Gen. Corbin before departing for Tampa.

The removal of Gen. Corbin's office does duty with the General Staff, and as the next ranking officer to Gen. Young will in reality be the Assistant Chief of Staff. For the present he will also retain his post at the head of the Adjutant-General's Department, head of the Adjutant-General and, though a gradual merger of the two offices may take place, it is not intended that there shall be any immediate change. resulting promotions will bring about some other changes of importance to the army. Gen. Miles is at present president of the Board of Ordnance and Fortifica-tion, and his successor will have to be determined upon by Secretary Root. understood that Gen. Gillespie, Chi understood that Gen. Gillespie, Chief of Engineers, the second ranking member of the board, will become the new president

RESPITE FOR RAILROADS. Plea for Long Delay in Fitting With Safety Appliances Not Granted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.-An extension till Oct. 15 of the time limit in which railroads must be fully equipped with safety appliances was granted to-day to the Boston and Maine, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Western roads.

The extension was made as brief as possible so that the Interstate Commerce Commission might have a chance to investigate the merits of the claims of the various roads for a long extension. It is believed that the commission will be able to deter mine by Oct. 15 whether any of the roads named should get the desired postponement. The extension granted to-day is merely for the purpose of information, and does not meet with the wishes of the railroads for a long postponement of the date fixed

> CUPID'S FOOD After a Bump on the Pike.

No one expects true love ever to run perfectly smooth, and it doesn't. A Texas girl was thrown from her horse and how food righted the situation she best can tell. "Seven years ago last March I was thrown from my horse and although I did not seem much hurt at the time in a few months I began to suffer, gradually growing so weak that I had to stop school and Fé, the Pennslyvania, Erie. and Norfolk and never felt well. I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not do work of any kind. Five years ago I became engaged to be married as soon as my health was better but we waited and waited for years and there was no change. "About New Year's a year ago I said We will wait three months longer and if I am not lots better we will part forever for it seemed that I was doomed to suffer the rest of my life. A few weeks later a friend asked me if I had ever tried Grape-Nuts food and begged me to get a package. I did this not having any hopes of it helping me but before I had used the first package I felt stronger than I had for a long time. "So I continued the use of Grape-Nuts twice a day with plenty of cream and now the United States does not hold gold enough to buy my health and the happiness that has become mine because of this health It was not long before I was entirely well and strong once more and last September was married and am the happiest young woman in the world and all of it is the out come of using the food Grape-Nuts.

"Now that I have written my letter I feel that it is not a success for I cannot finds words that seem half strong enough to me to tell you how thankful I am."
